Celebrating 30 Years of Building Tradition in Northern Colorado

Founder and President, Doug Buer, takes a personal role in every project buyers who already have land or are considering buying a lot come to us to build the perfect home for that site.”

Traditional Values of Quality, Integrity and Personal Service

A Fort Collins native, Doug Buer has been building homes almost since boyhood. His late father was a fine cabinetmaker and finish carpenter, and Doug worked for one of the best builders in Northern Colorado for years before introducing Buer Homes.

As President, Doug Buer personally manages and directs every project to maintain quality and schedules. This is a hands-on, family business where Doug’s brother Mitch and Doug’s son Jared produce, with a talent that can’t be taught, the beautiful finish work that distinguishes Buer’s homes from others.

“We take an old-fashioned approach when it comes to quality and hand crafting,” Doug says. “For instance, over-the-door interior glass transoms grace each interior door in our homes; newel posts are hand-crafted (and vary) for each and every home we do.”

And he takes a personal approach.

“We guide our buyers through every step of the process, through all the selections they make, to give our buyers the finest products and help them stay on budget.”

Some builders bid out each project and contract for the lowest bid, but not Doug. He has built long-term relationships with subcontractors and suppliers – especially local ones. He knows they will back him up in guaranteeing all facets of the homes

By Judy Finman, At Home

Award-winning Buer Homes of Loveland marks with pride its 30th year in business, designing and building custom and semi-custom, traditional and contemporary homes for discriminating homeowners.

Buer Homes builds all over Northern Colorado – on privately owned land parcels and in these subdivisions: Legacy Heights, Rainbow Lake Estates, and Sedona Hills in Berthoud; Dakota Glen, Mariana Butte, and Alford Meadows in Loveland; and HighPointe Estates in Windsor.

In addition, says Founder and President Doug Buer, “Many home-he builds. This further assures homebuyers of consistent quality in their Buer-built home.

Customizing Each Home

Buer Homes offers homebuyers a variety of attractive floor plans and exteriors to choose from – and can modify any of them to suit the buyer. Interior special features of the finest materials and designs are available to make each home uniquely personal.

“We can build a plan you already have that you’ve fallen in love with, or design a plan specifically for you. This service is included when we build for you. Our sole goal is that you end up with the home you want. Plus, we love building homes as individual as you are,” Doug explains.

Each subdivision or property where Buer Homes builds has its own special features, views and requirements. Therefore, designs may differ for different areas. Thanks to its customized approach, Buer can use a design originally drawn for one area and modify it to suit another.

“This custom approach means that we keep our volume low, only about 15 homes a year. We are not looking to get bigger – we want to maintain the

Two Significant Awards

Buer Homes received the 2013 Parade of Homes People’s Choice Award from the Home Builders Association of Northern Colorado. This is a high compliment, as it reflects the preference of the people who visit and tour various builders’ homes.

Buer Homes was also honored with the 2014 Home Builders Association of Northern Colorado Custom Builder of the Year Award – an award of great distinction.
